PRESIDENT GOES AFTER FORAKER

Has Letter Showing Taft Disliked Senator.

PUBLISHES THE DOCUMENT

Nominee Stated He Did Not Care For Presidency if It Had to Come by Compromise In a Matter of Principle. Roosevelt Calls Accused Statesman a Resolute Opponent of "Policies of Internal Reform."

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sopt. 22.-Secreary Loeb made public a formal stateent by the president, which was called forth by the recent exchanges be ween William R. Hearst and Senator Foraker of Ohio. Mr. Hearst in public itterances had accused the senator of relations with the Standard thi com-sary inconsistent with his duties as a senator and his attitude as a represensenator and measurement and pro-fessions. In his statement President Rossevolt makes another appear for the support of Mr Taft and declares that his defeat would bring "lasting satisfaction to but one set of mennamely, to these men who as shown in the correspondence published by Mr. Hearst, were behind Mr. Forsker. the opponent of Mr. Taft, within his own party, and who now are behind Governor Huskell and his associates. the opponents of Mr. Taft in the oppo-

Refers to Brownsville,

The statement in part reads: "Senator Foraker has been a leader among these members of congress of both parties who have resolutely op-posed the great policies of internal re-form for which the administration hamade itself responsible. His attitude has been that of certain other public men, notably (as shown in this same correspondence published by Mr. Henrat) Governor Haskell of Oklaboma. There is a striking difference in one respect, however, in the present positions of Governor Haskell and Senator Foraker, Governor Haskell stands high in the councils of Mr. Bryan and is the treasurer of his na-tional campaign committee. Senator Foraker represents only the forces which in imbittered fashion fought the nomination of Mr. Taft.

"The entire agitation over Browns ville was in large part not a genuine agitation on behalf of colored men at all, but merely one phase of the effort by the representatives of certain law defying corporations to bring discredit upon the administration because it was ceking to cut out the evils connected not only with the corrupt use of wealth, but especially with the corrupt alliance between certain business men of large fortunes and certain politiians of great influence. The vens histility of these interests and of their special representatives in public life and in the press to the nomination of Mr. Taft was merely the natural se-quence of their hestility to the measres of the administration for the regdation of great corporations doing an anterstate business and to the attitude of the administration in consistently presecuting all offenders of great wealth, precisely as it has presented il other offenders."

The letter of Mr. Taft is as follows: "I wish to express myself with as such emphasis as possible as to chether I would object to a compromise esolution which shall include an in-orsement of myself for the presidency ind Senator Fornker for the senator ship. In my judgment it would be not only a great mistake—something more would be accepted necessarily as a empromise on my behalf and there-ere with my acquiescence or at least with the nequiescence of my friends, for whose action I am more or less re-sponsible. It would totally misrepreent my position. I don't eare for the residency if it has to come by com-romise with Senator Foraker or any e else in a matter of principle. He as opposed the vital peticles and prin-iples of the administration and to his possition has sensed upon and magnied an important but incidental mat-er to embarross the administration, sing in this without scruple a blind ee prejudice to accomplish his mail dministration, I cannot stuitify my-elf by acquilescence in any proposed outgrounds which necessarily involves e admission that the Republicans of nce of opinion as of no importance nd one that can be walved in the increst of party harmony or the settle-sent of factional differences."

"I publish this letter without Mr. should be known. The man who unhesitatingly resists temptation, who cannot be swerved by any consideration of personal interest from followfor the course which his loft; concepwhose whole concern is for the welfare of the people and who has a level in a itelian of difficult and oscial public excles his extraordinary expanity as in administrator, is surely the man of all others to be intrusted with the pres-idency. I appeal to all good citizens, to all high minded, consciontions men who love their country for the sake of their country to put such a man at its brad.

New Records In the Air. Unnaual interest attaches to the balstrides made in aerial navigation in this season's tests. While among experts the balloon and the flying ma chine are separate propositions, the public is prepared to bear that either style of airship has solved the problem of aerial navigation, and considerable burdens may be rapidly transported anywhere. At present, however, all airships are popularly believed to be an erratic as a broncho and as unre-Many nations prepared to share in the Berlin contests. In the remarksble flights of the past few months three nations have scored progress to a degree that is inspiring—Germany with the dirigible, France and America with the aeropiane.

In the aeropiane tests of the year it has been demonstrated that successful flight requires not merely a good machine, but a good operator. For years the attention of experimenters has been directed to the perfection of the machine. Whether "heavier than air" or "lighter than air." It must be subject to human control at all times. It has long been recognized that the simple balloon can remain in the air a long time-long enough to wrose the Atlantic. But it is the sport of the elements, and should one cross the ocean from these shores it reight land in the North son or in the Mediterranean or even in the sands of Egypt in spite of its navigator. The flights from St. Louis, in which several balloons moved many hundreds of miles in the same direction, indicate that knowledge of acrial currents is a prime factor in systematic ballooning. This is an old theory, and the latter day problem is how to make the transfer from unfavorable currents to favorable currents. This solved, and the balloon can cover long distances in a short time.

The problem the aeroplanists seem to be wrestling with at present is the ability to get into the air at all with a machine under perfect control and gradually increase the duration of the flight. The balloonist goes where the wind carries him. The aeropianist hopes to go with the wind or against It or across its track at will. Steady trips for comparatively short distances the balloon, which now beats around for a thousand miles or more, will be a success when it lands its freight at the point fixed upon in advance by its tinue to obey the will of Count Zeppe itn and those of his faith, 1908 will open a new era in the history of bal-looning as well as that of flight in Milton and America. It is fitting that there should be a counterpart of the celebration in Eng-land of the tercentenary of the birth of John Milton on this side of the Atlantic. Englishmen will duly com-memorate his birthday, Dec. 8, a somewhat belated honor to this republican poet. Leaving his fame as a poet to take care of Itself, the people of this republic can acknowledge a deep debt to him as the author of the principle of commonwealth building which we have carried further on the road to completeness than any other atton on earth. The self go for which Milton fought against coercive feudalism long before he wrote the poetry which placed him among the immortals appears as the power of progress in every American commonwealth of this century.

As a teacher Milton is the most illustrious exemplar of that Puritan type which left so deep an imprint upon early American character. For two centuries throughout New England and her offshoots Milton's "Para disc Lost" was read more universally and more attentively than any other volume, with the exception of the Bi ble and Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress." Everywhere as the republic grew serious and studious the New Englander felt himself uplifted and encouraged as he recognized in Milton that unity of piety, virtue and wisdom with melody and beauty which makes the true seer.

Great, however, as our debt may be to Milton, the singer of a lofty and inspiring note, our highest obligation is to the prose, so long neglected abroad because practically outlawed at home, In which he fought for representative government. "He who is not trusted with his own netions (his drift not being known to be evil) and standing to the hazard of the law and penalty has to better argument to think himself reputed in the commonwealth wherein he was born than if he were a fool or a foreigner," wrote Milton in the years when the power of autocracy was most insolent. In that single sentence lurks the whole principle of our Dec laration of Independence, and if England claims the poetry of the man who penned it we alone have used his politics so as to be able to claim him as a

The Russian church has again denounced Tolstoy, hoping thus to belittle him in the eyes of the common but superstitious people, who love him. It endered the peasants to abstain from honoring Toistoy's forthcoming birthday on penalty of losing their souls through the judgment of God. Perhaps there never existed a man who in his lifetime was so beloved and so erated as Count Lee Tolstoy. And the wonder of it is that it is all the result of his moral teaching, his profound thought and his beautiful personal life

With electric cars and others pas ing the gates of the county fair and tapping villages ten to twenty miles around, it is not so difficult as it was once to get a crowd for the annual show. Now that great fairs have about run their course the local fair is likely to attract visitors in droves, and efforts to improve the exhibits and other features will be rewarded at the ticket office.
